

Established in 1972, Euromonitor International is the world leader in strategic business research and analysis. In addition to our Head office in London, we have offices in 11 other countries with over 1,000 staff, and a further 800 contributing analysts in over 80 countries around the world. As an independent company and recognised innovator, consistently out-performing our peers, we were the UK Private Company of the Year 2013 and in 2014 won the Queen's Award for Enterprise.

INDUSTRY ANALYST

Overview of the role:

The role is a combination of project management, research and analysis. This is a challenging role as an Industry Analyst you must be confident, self-motivated keen to work closely with freelance analysts and in-house staff dedicated to the project.

Core to the role is the recruitment, commissioning and management of freelance research analysts in Lithuania and possibly in other countries. However, the Industry Analyst will also be required to carry out research and analysis with a view to edit and finalize Industry reports.

Key Responsibilities:

- Collecting and analysing industry and company information
- Writing reports on different B2B industries in the top industrial countries of the world
- Commissioning (outsourcing) of a team of freelance analysts and managing their work
- Evaluating reports and collected data for quality, accuracy and value of information
- Contributing to optimisation of desk research methods and data collection standards

Required Skills

- Excellent communication skills and English fluency (both writing & oral)
- Degree in Business, Economics or similar field
- Knowledge of micro and macro economics, and high level of numeracy
- Understanding of desk research process and industry and company analysis writing
- Interest in industrial/B2B international business and company trends
- Well developed organisational skills, including prioritising, scheduling, multi-tasking and good attention to detail
- Ability to work under pressure to meet tight deadlines
- Proven editorial skills
- Experience in project management (or team management) an advantage

In return, we offer an international, fast-growing, dynamic, and challenging working environment with genuine global career development opportunities, as well as competitive salary, benefits and excellent working conditions.

Email your CV and cover letter in English to VilniusRecruitment@euromonitor.com
Application deadline is 16th of October, 2017. (mention Industry Analyst (under subject heading).

Confidentiality guaranteed. Only successful candidates will be notified.